LOCAL SHOWMEN ARE AGAINST BILL

Two Moving Picture Show Owners
Are Opposed to Bill Permitting
Sunday Performances.

MEASURE IS BEFORE SENATE

Committee Reports It Out For Passage Despite Protest It Has Aroused.

There are two picture theater owners in Indiana who are opposed to the Zearing bill in the upper house of the state legislature to permit theaters to remain open on Sunday, and they reside in Rushville.

Walter Easley, owner and operator of the Princess theater and Harry Clifford, owner of the Palace theater are openly against the measure and say they will fight it to the last ditch.

The senate committee on public morals reported the bill out for passage last night and a wave of righteous indignation will likely sweep the whole state as a result. It has already been shown in dispatches from all parts of Indiana to the Indianapolis News that the opposition to the opening of theaters on Sunday is very great.

Walter Easley of the Princess theater says that he fought the movement on among the operators of moving picture shows at their meeting recently, when they proposed to fight for the law legalizing Sunday shows. He says what few outstate owners there were to oppose the sanctioning of the Zearing bill were soon overruled by the Indianapolis operatives and those from some of the larger cities in the state.

Public men in Rushville have expressed themselves against the passage of the bill. Several local Democratic leaders have been consulted concerning their view of the bill and they have been almost unanimous in condemning it. The church people of Rushville are united against the bill.

It was not expected that the committee on public morals in the senate would have the territory to report on the bill favorably after they had seen the adverse sentiment that had been aroused all over Indiana. The Indianapolis News says today that indignation is running so high since the committee's report that a movement has been started not only to kill the Zearing bill, but also to appeal that provision of the law which permits baseball on Sunday.

Those behind this plan say with Sunday baseball legalized, the effort to legalize Sunday theaters and the bill to prevent saloons to keep open on certain holidays, it is time to call a halt.

The picture show lobby has been perniciously active about the state-house ever since the session of the legislature opened, and indications are that this lobby has done its work well.

TO PLAY HE IS AN EDITOR

Eugene C. Miller Will Have Role in Indianapolis Home Talent Play.

Eugene C. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Miller of this city, who is now practicing law in Indianapolis, will essay a role in "The County Chairman," a home talent production of George Ade's best rural comedy, which will be given at English's theater in Indianapolis Monday and Tuesday night for the benefit of the Boys' Club of Indianapolis. Mr. Miller will appear as Wilson Prewitt, the editor of the Banner. This is the tenth annual event of its kind in Indianapolis.

WILL RESPOND TO A TOAST

Clell Maple Will Speak at Chicago
Driving Club Banquet.

Clell Maple, former county recorder and a successful trainer and driver of fast horses, will be on the toast list at the annual banquet of the Chicago Driving club at the Stock Yards Inn in Chicago the evening of February 18, the week of the trotting congress, auction sale and meeting of the Great Western circuit stewards. Mr. Maple will speak on his pet subject, the drivers' and owners' association. He is the moving spirit in the new organization among horsemen. Many prominent horsemen will respond to toasts.

DIVORCE GRANTED BY JUDGE MEGEE

Court Found For Plaintiff in Case of Seeley vs. Seeley Upon Payment of Costs.

MUST NOT MARRY FOR 2 YEARS

It was rather quiet in the circuit court today as Judge Megee does not intend to follow a definite line of business on Saturdays but will take up cases that demand his attention. Harry T. Seeley was granted a divorce from Dora Seeley upon payment of the costs. Seeley is not to re-marry within two years. Seeley came here from New Jersey several years ago and is employed in the southern part of the county. Prosecutor Donald Smith appeared for the defendant and Seeley was the only witness.

The account suit of the Malleable Iron Range company against John E. Patton, demanding $90 was dismissed and the costs paid by the plaintiff.

SCHOOL DISPUTE SETTLED

Milroy Residents Deny Petitions Are Being Circulated Again.

The story coming from Milroy yesterday that the "eastiders" were circulating a petition to present to Charles A. Greathouse, state superintendent of public instruction, asking him to settle the dispute over the location of the new school house, is denied by Milroy residents today. It was reported today that Harry Colter had filed a petition bearing about 200 names with the state superintendent, but Mr. Colter says such is not the case. He declares the location was settled at the election last Saturday when a majority voted in favor of the old site.

HAD SON-IN-LAW ARRESTED

Charles Sweet was fined one dollar and costs yesterday by Squire Kratzer for public intoxication. Sweet was arrested last night by Chief McAllister on an affidavit filed by Sweet's father-in-law, Jude Levi.

SICK TEN DAYS.

Margaret Rogers, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rogers, died at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of her parents in Lewisville after an illness of but ten hours from pneumonia. The funeral was this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Presbyterian church by the Rev. P. N. Todd. Burial will be made in the cemetery there.

Charles H. Brown has filed suit against Sherles M. Brown for the appointment of administrator.

DEATH ENDS 20 YEARS ILLNESS

Mrs. Lucinda Owens, Age Eighty-
Eight Year, Expires at Her Home in Orange Township.

LONG A HELPLESS INVALID

Funeral Will be Held at Late Home
Sunday Morning—Five Children Survive.

Mrs. Lucinda Owen, eighty-eight years old, died at her home in Orange township, yesterday. She has been in poor health for a score of years. She had been a helpless invalid for the past nine years, but her death was directly due to Bright's disease. She had not been able to leave her bed without assistance for nine years as the result of a shock she sustained when her daughter, Miss Eliza, was found dead in her home. Her condition became even more pitiable when another daughter died six years ago.

The aged woman had been tenderly cared for by three of her children who were still at home. They are Marion, Oliver and Milligan Owen and the first has been been constantly an attendant on his mother throughout her long period of illness. The other surviving children are Benjamin Owen, of Adams, Decatur county, and Mrs. Clarissa Peck, of Orange township.

Mrs. Owen was born in Kentucky March 10, 1824. She came to Rush county with her parents when she was twenty-four years old and had lived on the farm where her death occurred for sixty-four years. She was the widow of the late Milligan Owen, who operated the old Owen flouring mill on Flat Rock for many years. The old mill, which was one of the landmarks of this section of the State, crumbled to dust a few years ago and has often been featured in the newspapers in Indianapolis.

Other surviving relatives of the deceased are ten grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. She also leaves a half-brother, Thomas Benson, of Kansas; a sister, Mrs. Malinda Lee, of Leesburg, Kas., who is ninety-four years old, and three half-sisters, Mrs. Christina Northern, Mrs. Mary Ann Northern and Miss Nancy Benson, all of Kansas.

The funeral services will be held at the house Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, the Rev. J. T. Seel, Sr., officiating, and the interment will be made in the Star cemetery.

TO CATCH HORSE THIEVES

Organization Will be Perfected at Meeting Here Next Saturday.

An organization to be known as the Rush County Horse Thief Detective association will be organized at a meeting to be held in the court house next Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. The district organizer for the National Horse Thief Detective association will be here and assist in the preliminary work. The purpose of such a society is to run down horse thieves and others who violate the law. Similar organization in other counties have been great helps to the communities in which they are located.

K. of P. MEETING.

The Knights of Pythias will have work in the ranks of esquire on next Monday night on five pages. Lodge will open at 7:15 sharp. A large attendance is desired.

WILL BE GOOD INVESTMENT

Taxes I. & C. Would Pay on Extension
Would Soon Equal Amount of Subsidy.

FIGURES DEMONSTRATE THIS

In 2 Years Interurban Has Paid More Taxes in This Township Than Would be Voted.

If the voters of Richland, Noble and Rushville township decide at the polls Wednesday, March 12, that a tax should be levied in the three townships to pay for right-of-way over the proposed route of extension of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company, the interurban line, when it is completed, will pay back the amount paid in taxes in a very few years, as is shown by the figures. In addition, after the sum equal to the special tax is paid back, the I. & C. would continue to pay taxes, thus making it a very good investment.

The right-of-way has been purchased with a view to building a double track. Of course, the double track will not be put down when the extension is first completed, but all arrangements will be made so that the double tracking can be done as soon as finances permit. It is and always has been the ultimate aim of the I. & C. to have a double track line from Indianapolis to Cincinnati so as to establish a service that can not be excelled on any interurban line in the world.

It is not determined at this time whether or not the grading will be done in preparation for a double track. The poles carrying the trolley wire will be set in the middle of the right-of-way with an arm on each side so that a line can run on either side.

It is pointed out that the bringing of the extension to Rushville would be an especially good investment to the taxpayers of Rushville township. The I. & C. in the last two years has paid more taxes in Rushville township than would be levied, if the voters decide in favor of the I. & C. at the special election. So that in two years the township would get much more back than would be paid the interurban line.

The taxes they pay in Rushville township would be increased materially if the new line is built through southern Rush county. There will be 2.38 miles of it in this township.

The assessed valuation of main track is $5,900, a mile, of siding $1,500 a mile and of rolling stock $500 a mile. This would make a total valuation of $7,900 a mile. Since there would be 2.38 miles in Rushville township, the proposed line would have to pay taxes on an assessed valuation of $18,802. The tax rate in Rushville township is $1.99 on the hundred, so that the taxes the new line would pay in a year would amount to $374.71.

In the following right-of-way as it is now planned, the mileage in Noble township would be 5.26. Figuring the valuation at $7,900 per mile, the I. & C. would have to pay taxes on a total valuation of $41,554 per annum in this township. The tax rate in Noble is $2.20 a hundred so that the annual taxes the line would pay there would amount in all to $914.19.

There would be 2.4 miles of track in Richland township. This would make the I. & C. pay taxes on a valuation of $18,960. The tax rate in Richland is $2.29 on the hundred. This would make the annual tax of the I. & C. in this township $434.17. In addition a substation would be located in Richland township, the valuation of which would be $10,000. This would make the annual tax of the I. & C. in this township $2,290.00.

GUARDIAN WAS APPOINTED

For John Trennephol Who Was Declared Insane.

Luther C. Sharp was appointed guardian of John Trennephol this morning by Judge Megee. Trennephol was declared of unsound mind a few days ago at an insanity inquest. He was brought before the court and questioned. Trennephol has a damage suit pending in the court for $200 for personal injuries received last May at the John M. Johnson gravel pit and worry over his troubles caused his insanity. The physicians who conducted the inquest testified before Judge Megee and the petition for a guardian was granted. He will be taken to Madison in a few days.

FARMERS PROPOSE TO ORGANIZE CLUBS

Those Who Attended Short Course At Cambridge City To Continue the Study of Crops.

HOPE TO GET SCHOOL IN 1914

Continuation of the work started by the Purdue short course the first three days of this week is being contemplated by the farmers who were in attendance, and an effort will be made to make the work wide in its influence. The farmers will meet in Cambridge City soon to perfect an organization to further better farming and soil improvement.

If the farmers are unable to secure the Purdue short course again they are planning to organize a farmers' institute for next year that will take up farm topics along the same plan as was carried out by the Purdue instructors. The organization would have speakers on different topics for different days. The Purdue instructors promised the short course promoters that they would be glad to return at any time to deliver lectures, even though the Purdue authorities would not permit them to return with the extension work next year.

SING IN LEGISLATURE.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Spencer of Indianapolis, both well known here by reason of the fact Mrs. Spencer was formerly Miss Ruth Tevis of this city, sang at the joint meeting the house and senate in Indianapolis yesterday when Senator Kern and Shively made speeches. W. W. Spencer, father of Arnold Spencer, is floor leader of the house.

REPUBLICANS TO ATTEND DINNER

Several from Here Expect to Attend Affair to be Given by Republican Union.

EX-GOV. HADLEY WILL SPEAK

New Organization Will Be Extended
in Every County in Indiana in Near Future.

A number of Republicans of Rushville and Rush county are preparing to attend the informal dinner which will be given in the Claypool hotel in Indianapolis next Friday evening under the auspices of the Republican Union.

While the affair is not to be in the nature of a love-feast, it is expected to be the greatest gathering of Republicans in Indiana in recent years. The plates are to be sold at two dollars each, and as the banquet hall will seat but six hundred people, Republicans who want to be sure of a place are urged to send in their reservations at once.

Former Governor Hadley, of Missouri, will be the headline speaker. Word is received by H. R. Danner, president of the Republican Union, that he will be there. The other speakers who will have places on the set program for the dinner have not yet been announced.

The Republican Union was organized as a means of bringing about a revival of the Republican party in the state. The object was to make it an organization of the younger and less known Republicans and to infuse new blood into the party organization and the management of party affairs. Already the Union has hundreds of members in Marion county alone, and organizations have been formed also in several other counties, and will be extended into every county in the state.

It is planned by the officers of the Union to make the dinner a statewide affair, though it will not be in the nature of a lovefeast. There will be a set program of speeches, and it is understood that no impromptu speeches will be permitted.

FARM SELLS AT $200 AN ACRE

It is reported that Dave Wagoner of Orange township sold his farm to John Wagoner for two hundred dollars an acre. This is the highest price said to have been paid for a farm of sixty acres or more in Rush county for some time. Dave Wagoner will probably move to Columbus, Ohio, and continue training horses.

It Makes All the Difference in the World

That's what you say when you tell your friends about your shopping expeditions.

It may be the principles of the store, the service it offers or the quality of the goods it sells that you are discussing. But the difference to you means your satisfaction or disappointment.

You will find when you deal with the merchants who advertise in THE DAILY REPUBLICAN that the difference stands always for satisfaction. Each store values its reputation too much to risk disappointing you. Each wants your good will. So they direct every effort to serve you best and give you the best values.

By reading the advertisements in THE DAILY REPUBLICAN closely and constantly every night you will become acquainted with the reliable stores which are worthy of your patronage.

Were You Ever Gold Bricked?

If you are thinking of buying a suit of clothes and some one offers you a cheap, out-of-date suit for a little less than I charge for an up-to-date, all-wool suit, made to your individual measure, out of 1913 goods, 1913 model, a suit guaranteed in style, fit, workmanship and wearing qualities, and you buy of him, then and there you are gold-bricked.

I have nearly one thousand patterns of the latest all wool fabrics, from the world's best looms, awaiting your inspection and from which you can select your new spring suit. The prices for the whole suit made to your measure range from $17.00 to $50.00 and some even higher, but any suit we make you, no matter what the price, will fit you, will wear you, will look good on you and will please you, even if it didn't cost you as much as $20.00.

Come in as soon as possible, Easter is not far off, March 23 this year, and judging from the way my canary bird is singing and Al. Linville's shining up, spring is nearly here.

family, died Saturday evening about six o'clock with pneumonia. He was 73 years of age, and during his many years he gained many friends. 14 of those years he made his home with the Hon. Horace Elwell. It was a pleasure to meet him, as he was always of a cheerful disposition. His remains were taken to Bentonville for burial last Monday.

The Raleigh people have been entertained with a show each night the past week.

Miss Florence Nipp was entertained at dinner Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Kemmer.

About 130 guests attended the reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Corydon Kiser, given in honor of their son, Donald and wife. The happy couple received many handsome and useful presents. Ice cream, cake and punch were served.

About thirty of the young people came in at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Kemmer Wednesday evening, and made a complete surprise on John Blessinger. The evening was spent with music, games and plays, after which, at a late hour, refreshments of popcorn, candy and apples were served, and all departed with a happy feeling and wishing for another such happy event. John continues to remember that he was one time surprised during his 20 years.

Pitiable Spectacle Interrupts Rockefeller Hearing.

A BATTER'D, WRECK'D OLD MAN

Aged Financier Had Barely Begun Answers to Questions Propounded by Congressional Committee Investigating So-Called Money Trust When a Laryngeal Spasm Choked Him and His Physician Stopped Inquisition.

Brunswick, Ga., Feb. 8.—Before Chairman Pujo of the money trust committee, the examination of William Rockefeller was held here. Samuel Untermyer, counsel, an official stenographer, Secretary McDowell of the house banking and currency committee, John A. Garver of New York, Mr. Rockefeller's counsel, and Dr. Chappell, the New York throat specialist, and Mr. Rockefeller's private stenographer, were present.

The aged financier was assisted into the room by Mr. Garver and then introduced to the examiners, with whom he shook hands.

The palsy which has been one of the accompanying symptoms of Mr. Rockefeller's failing health was noted by all, and not for a second did the trembling of the hand stop. Dr. Chappell displayed a plaster cast of Mr. Rockefeller's head showing how the vocal chords and part of the larynx had been cut away. The immediate result of this condition, he said, was the inability of his patient to speak above a whisper. Spasms follow excitement, he added, and the loss of the muscles make it impossible for Mr. Rockefeller to counteract the effect of spasms.

Mr. Rockefeller shook hands all around and whispered the names of Mr. Untermyer and Mr. Pujo by way of salutation. When his right hand went up to make the oath his arm shook like a leaf.

When he repeated the words of the oath the muscles of his face began to give way. Mr. Pujo moved nervously in his chair. Mr. Rockefeller handed a paper to the stenographer with the whispered request that it be read. Here is the text:

"I am urgently advised and warned by my physician that this examination is attended with very serious danger on account of the precarious condition of my throat. I desire, however, to make the effort, as I have not now and never have had any disposition to avoid testifying before your committee, except as I have been cautioned by my physicians that doing so would endanger my life. If I find that the strain is too great for me to take further risk I shall have to ask your indulgence in not pressing the examination further. As I have lost my voice, I would esteem it a privilege to make my answers to the official stenographer who sits beside me and who will read them aloud. It is impossible for me to write them."

"Referring to the statement just made by you, Mr. Rockefeller," said Mr. Untermyer in beginning the examination, "it is currently reported that your health is such that you are able to play golf and indulge in sports of that sort. What is the fact as to that?"

"I have never played a game of golf in my life," he replied. "I try to take open air exercise every day. That is the extent of my amusement."

"Do you recall the occasion of the organization of the Amalgamated Copper company in 1898?" Mr. Untermyer asked.

"I do," Mr. Rockefeller replied. "Was it in 1898?" Mr. Untermyer went on.

With a great effort Mr. Rockefeller replied: "I think it was in 1899."

He did not complete the sentence. The action of the muscles of his face and the secretion from his mouth evidently presaged the choking spell which Dr. Chappell feared. The physician interfered. Dr. Chappell said: "Mr. Chairman, I would like to take the liberty of drawing your attention to Mr. Rockefeller's condition at the present moment. I strongly urge you not to proceed, as in doing so you are certainly endangering his life at the present moment. He is now on the verge of a spasm of the larynx which might choke him."

Mr. Rockefeller dropped back into his chair with a weak, tired expression as he heard the physician say that his end might be at hand. He looked pitifully from the chairman to the attorney for the committee.

Mr. Pujo arose, as a man in the midst of a stern duty, and insisted that Dr. Chappell swear that death might result from a continuation of the examination, which the doctor did. Mr. Untermyer, facing square about, then said to Mr. Rockefeller:

"Mr. Rockefeller, you have heard Dr. Chappell's statement. Do you feel in such a condition that you think it unsafe to proceed further?"

"I certainly do," replied Mr. Rockefeller, still through his stenographer's mouthpiece.

Chairman Pujo then announced that the committee would stand in indefinite recess.

PERU PROMISES TO REMEDY SITUATION

Indian Rubber Gatherers to Be Protected.

Washington, Feb. 8.—A thorough reformation of labor conditions and a cessation of atrocities against Indian rubber gatherers in the Putumayo district of Peru are promised in a note from Senor Don F. A. Pezet, the Peruvian minister at Washington, made public by the state department.

The publication of this note followed close on the transmission to congress of a state department report on conditions in the Putumayo, accompanied by a message from President Taft. In this message Mr. Taft characterized the efforts of the Peruvian government to bring about a remedy of the situation as "painfully inadequate and unhappily misdirected." The president indicated, however, that henceforth better things might be expected.

Minister Pezet in his note says: "My government instructed me to inform you that as a result of the investigations and of what they have revealed it has taken immediate steps to improve conditions in the Putumayo territory. The several parties indicted for the crimes against the aborigines will be brought to justice and such of the criminals as have fled the country will be brought back as soon as the proper extraditions can be obtained."

Mississippi Negro Lynched. Houston, Miss., Feb. 8.—Andrew Williams, a negro, to whom all the evidence pointed as the murderer of Mrs. John C. Williams, a bride of three months, whose dead and mutilated body was discovered by the husband in a pit under the kitchen, has been lynched.

Bucket Shop Men Fined. Washington, Feb. 8.—Eight men caught in the government's anti-bucket shop crusade in 1910, have pleaded guilty or nolle contendere in the district supreme court here and paid fines aggregating $50,000.

The state department has requested the Cuban government to prosecute the persons responsible for the publication in a Havana newspaper of libelous statements regarding Minister Beaupre and Secretary of Legation Gibson.

Pay Telephone Toll.

Don't overlook to pay your telephone toll before February 12th if you wish to avoid paying 15 cents extra for collection. No notice will be given by telephone.

Notice to Absentee.

In the Circuit Court of Rush County, Indiana.

Charles H. Brown vs. Sherles M. Brown. No. 10761.

Notice is hereby given, that the above named plaintiff has filed complaint, in said Court, against the above named defendant to have an administrator appointed for the estate of said defendant, by reason of the fact that said defendant has absented himself from his usual place of residence and gone to parts unknown, for the space of five years last past, and has left personal property in Rush County, Indiana, without having made any sufficient provision for the management of the same. Said defendant is hereby further notified that such property is suffering waste for want of proper care, and that the family of said defendant is in need of the use and proceeds of such property for their support.

Said defendant is therefore ordered to appear in the Rush Circuit Court, of Rush County, Indiana, on the 11th day of March, 1913, and show cause, if any, why said petition shall not be granted. Witness my hand and official seal, this 7th day of February, 1913.

BIG SUPPLY BILL NOW ON PROGRAM

Appropriations for Indiana's Institutions.

TO GO THROUGH WITH A RUSH

Following the Recommendations of the Legislative Visiting Committee, There Will Be Little Opposition to or Discussion of the Measure Providing For Maintenance of the Hoosier State's Public Institutions.

Indianapolis, Feb. 8.—The regular appropriations bill for the state institutions will be given a first reading in the house Monday afternoon. The joint committee composed of the senate committee on finance and the ways and means committee of the house reviewed the bulky document for the last time yesterday afternoon and hustled it off to the printer with instructions that it be ready for distribution when the house assembles Monday afternoon. The bill involves appropriations amounting to about $2,359,000, and the recommendations are practically the same as those made by the legislative visiting committee.

The regular appropriations measure generally meets with no antagonism in either branch of the legislature, for the amounts voted are those absolutely necessary and as a result the regular appropriations measure may become a law the early part of the week.

Representative Cravens said he would endeavor to have the house go into a committee of the whole Monday afternoon and under a suspension of the rules have the bill read a second and third times and passed. If this plan is carried out the bill will reach the senate not later than Tuesday, when a similar plan will likely be pursued and so the bill may go to the governor for signature the same day. The joint committee has made no announcement as to when the specific appropriations bill, the "pork barrel" of a state administration, will be finished, but members of the committee were of the opinion that it might be reported the coming week.

Senate Favors Sunday Theaters.

The senate received without discussion a report from the committee on public morals, recommending for passage Senator Zearing's bill legalizing Sunday theatrical performances. The committee voted to take a favorable stand on the theater bill in the face of a pronounced opposition started by Indianapolis ministers. The bill merely excludes from the provisions of the present law against following one's customary vocations on Sunday, those persons who are engaged in giving theatrical performances or moving picture shows. The public morals committee also recommended for passage the resolution introduced by Senator Van Auken calling on congress and the legislatures of other states to take action against the alleged practice of polygamy.

The committee on railroads recommended for passage Senator Grube's resolution providing for information to be sent to the interstate commerce commission that railroads of Indiana are violating the law against charging more than 2 cents a mile for interstate passenger fares.

The inheritance-tax bill, passed by the house, was recommended for passage by the senate committee on judiciary.

Going After Cattle Poisoners.

The house unanimously passed Representative Fleming's bill providing that a court may add imprisonment of from one to eight years as well as assessing a fine as a penalty for poisoning live stock. Mr. Fleming explained that several horses and cows in Jay county have been poisoned, and he said that "we want to send that fellow to the penitentiary whenever we catch him."

Another bill to pass by unanimous vote was the Eschbach measure to prevent trade discrimination in the purchase and sale of milk. Representative Eschbach said the bill had been drafted for the purpose of breaking up an "obnoxious monopoly affecting local dairymen." He said that farmers in various communities had formed dairy associations for the purpose of collecting cream and milk to be sold to manufacturers of cheese and butter. Big concerns, where they find competition in the form of the local dairymen, boost the price for butter fat, he explained, until they kill the competition and then they lower the prices. After freezing out the "little man," Mr. Eschbach charged, the big concern restores its old prices.

Six members voted against Representative W. W. Spencer's bill providing for an appropriation of $10,000 for the incasing, preservation and custody of the Indiana regimental flags carried during the civil war. Mr. Spencer, the Democratic floor leader, had expressed the hope that the bill would pass by unanimous vote, and he was disappointed when six members went on record as being opposed to it.

Fatal Coasting Accident.

Oxford, O., Feb. 8.—Miss Elsie Fial of Indianapolis was killed and four others injured seriously when a coasting sled collided with a telephone pole on a steep hill. All were students of Oxford College for Women.

What it Costs.

Objections to the plan of the city to charge water consumers the cost of water meters, and for their installation, are met by the administration with the assertion that the city plant would lose money if it had to go to the expense of installing water meters and then receive no revenue from them.

The city is installing water meters to save money. If it expects to save money by charging the consumers more, it is a poor scheme. But grant that the installation of meters does save money, as it is believed it will, then the city will not be at as great an expense as it is now. The city will save money, we presume, in saving water, because the less amount of water that is used, the less wear and tear there will be on pumps and the wells will last that much longer, which will, of course, lessen the expense incident to digging new wells.

But if the city plans to save money, why not let the water consumers have the benefit of it? If in the end the meters are going to bring more money into Rushville coffers, the amount will be great enough, at least partly so, to pay the first cost of the meters. Why should any water consumer have to pay $12.60 for the privilege of using city water? In a great majority of cases it will be compulsory, because a big majority of the householders of Rushville are dependent on the city for their supply of water. The old wells, which were once in use here, have been abandoned for sanitary reasons.

Arnold Ormes, chairman of the water and light committee, argues that it would be unfair to the taxpayer who does not use city water.

Let's hear from that taxpayer. If there is one among us who believes it is the proper thing to assess every water consumer $12.60 for the privilege of using a water meter, let him speak out. The Republican will be glad to print his views and argue with him.

The water and light committee does not know to a certainty whether the meter system would be great enough to justify the installation of meters free of charge. They say that it is necessary to charge for meters, but they can not back up this assertion with facts and figures. They might try it once if they lose. Then they would know. It would increase the city water patronage. The city water and light plant is a losing proposition anyway, and a loss of a few more dollars, if the free meter system would cause one, probably wouldn't be a national calamity at that.

But the question resolves itself into one thin: Before fixing the rate, the plant superintendent investigated the charge for water in forty cities where meters are used and attempted to strike the mean in preparing the scale for the charge to be made here. In other cities where private corporations control the water supply, meters are furnished free and the rate is no more than it is to be here. Then we water consumers have to pay $12.60 for the privilege of owning a municipal plant. Better had we sell out and quit the business. A private concern would be of greater benefit—and besides it would not worry the heads of a mayor and city council.

Common Sense Women.

Fortunately none of our home suffragettes feel that they can demonstrate their fitness to vote by going down to the public buildings or business district and heaving a rock through some costly square of plate glass.

If Mrs. John Bull had any sense of humor she would perceive that side of it. One of the most essential qualifications for the voting act is a respect for law and willingness to abide by it. When a Suffragette breaks a window, she says in essence, "I'm not fit for the thing I want."

In spite of close ties of blood, kindred, and education between England and the United States, no hint of that spirit has been found on this side of the water.

From Josh Billings, and from long before him, down to George Ade, a stream of genial satire has run through the life of the American people. Who can tell how much hysteria has been removed from our society and politics by the national sense of humor?

President-elect Wilson is having his inaugural shoes made, and a pair of old-fashioned boys' copper tips might hasten the departing view of the office seekers.

The report that a man had been made the head of a trust because of his solicitations to obey the law is probably somewhat premature.

"The newspapers have had a great deal to say about me," remarked Representative Judkins, the bull moose, from Wayne county, "and I have not made a fuss over it. When they said I opposed a part of the bull moose platform since I was elected. I was game and I took it. When they made pictures of me that caused the detective association of my home to look upon me with suspicion, I was a game sport and let it go at that. But I draw the line when any newspaper puts me down as a coffin maker from Richmond. I don't have any

"But you are in the coffin business, are you not?"

"Yes, but I made 'em at Cambridge City and not at Richmond."

SECRETLY WEDDED TUESDAY

Mrs. Belle Carney and W. H. Needham Surprise Their Friends.

The secret has just leaked out at Shelbyville that Mrs. Belle Carney of Morristown and W. H. Needham of this city were married at Manilla Tuesday. They were granted a marriage license at Shelbyville Tuesday and the clerk there attempted to keep it a secret, but the newspaper sleuths got next and learned the truth. The bride told friends after the wedding that she was going on a visit, when they started on their honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. Needham are visiting his relatives.

The Palace will show a sensational picture "An Escape From Sing Sing" for the first picture tonight. The other subjects include "Peck's Bad Boy," and "A Hot Time at the Roller Rink."

The Princess will show a Lubin "Satin and Gingham" for the first picture tonight. Ormi Hawley is featured in this picture which is said to be a beautiful drama. The other is a Vitagraph comedy, "O'Hara, Squatter and Philosopher." Monday night a newspaper drama "The Scoop" will be shown.

One of the briskest mail order sales in the history of the Shubert-Murat Theatre, Indianapolis, is in progress for William Faversham's spectacular production of Julius Caesar," which comes to that play house for three evenings only, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, February 10, 11 and 12, including Wednesday matinee, with a cast of eminent stars, including Mr. Faversham, Frank Keenan, Fuller Melish, Burton Churchill, Miss Julie Opp and a company of 200. Despite the extraordinary calibre of this attraction, there is no advance in prices, the regular 50c. to $2.00 scale being in force, with a special price of 50c. to $1.50 for the matinee. From present indications the engagement promises to be a record-breaking one from a box office standpoint, and the lovers of the best the English speaking stage has to offer are promised a rare treat in this presentation, which was unanimously proclaimed by the metropolitan critics to be the most notable Shakespearian revival in half a century. Not since the days of Booth, Barrett and Davenport has there been assembled in any permanent dramatic organization a combination of stars possessing a title of the histrionic ability as this one of Mr. Faversham's achieving. From a scenic standpoint, the production eclipses in colorful luxuriance and archaeological correctness any Shakespearian presentation within memory. Mr. Faversham commissioned the late Sir Alma Tadema, the greatest authority upon Roman painting, that the modern world has produced, to design the seven massive stage settings, and the settings themselves were painted from the Tadema designs in the London atelier of Joseph Barker, who painted the original "Kismet" scenery. A special and elaborate musical setting for rendition during the course of the performance has been composed by Christopher Wilson and the late Coleridge Taylor, the negro musician.

Much interest is being shown in girls' basket-ball this year. Girls teams have been playing curtain raisers to some of the games played by the boys. But what is wanted, is a game with an out-of-town team. And for such a game we certainly want the best line-up that is possible to make out. It should be a matter of pride with all the girls who play basket-ball at all for our team to win. To have a winning team (and Rushville certainly has a chance for one) different line-ups have to be tried out at the practice games. Although at first glance it may seem a trifle unfair for a weak team to have to play against a very good one, yet it should be borne in mind that a strong team has to be developed in order to sufficiently uphold the honor of the school. The new and perhaps poorer players, should have enough school spirit to be perfectly willing to practice against the better players. It would be a benefit to the team as a whole, to the best players, and to the poorer ones themselves. Freshmen who play should not feel as if they were being slighted or treated unfairly if asked to play on a weaker team for their time is coming. There are three more years before them in which to win laurels on the basket-ball floor. So, in conclusion, girls, be assured that your coach will always do the best and squarest thing for you and R. H. S. and above all, show a proper school spirit. If your showing this school spirit consists in playing on a weak team and against a strong one, do it cheerfully and remember, that you are doing it for the varsity team, of which you yourself may be a member some time.

Dr. A. W. Jamieson, of this city and Indiana State representative of the National Reform association spoke to the students of the high school Thursday morning, it being the day set aside for prayer for schools and colleges of the United States. In his address Mr. Jamieson said:

"It is an inspiration to face such a company of young people. I hope every high school student will become a high school graduate and every high school graduate, a college student. This is the day of prayer for schools and colleges. There has been a strong effort to secularize the schools of our land to get the Bible out of them, to open them without prayer, to get teachers counted brilliant regardless of character. There is, today, a strong reaction, for our leading statesmen and educator's, as well as moral reformers, are waking up to the fact that education without morals is but increasing the skill and the power of the rogue and the criminal.

"An education is not complete without moral character. The standard of morals is found in the Bible and the one perfect example is the Christ. The one who yields to the control of Christ has a personal experience of his power in the life." Dr. Jamieson used a number of illustrations which not only made the thought more clear but which as stories, the students thoroughly enjoyed.

BASKET BALL.

The local high school team journeyed to Milroy Wednesday night and brought home the bacon. The score was 16 to 15. The game was very exciting and the teams seemed evenly matched. At the first half Rushville led with the narrow margin of one point; the score was then 8 to 7. In the final half Milroy rallied and scored two field goals and a foul goal before Rushville had scored. Webb, center of the local team, succeeded in throwing three field goals in this half. Hinkle and Cameron each made a goal. For Milroy Robertson and Burrows played the star game. Toward the close, the game got rough and J. Harcourt of the Milroy team was slightly injured, accidentally, by Webb. The Milroy fans also showed a desire to fight after the game was over. Cameron could not use his floor work to good advantage on account of the smallness of the floor. Rushville will evidently find it "easy picking" when Milroy comes here for a return game.

The girls played a curtain raiser to the Franklin Rushville game Friday night. They played a fast and very exciting game with a score of 6 to 8 in favor of Adaline West's team. The girl's line-up was as follows: A. West, center, Freda Hiner, forward; Josephine Kelley, forward; Marie Clawson, guard; Anna Carroll, guard.

Naomi Craig, center; Gladys Wallace, forward; Sadie Broadhead, forward; Katherine Hitt guard; Dorothy Frazee, guard.

Goals—Hiner 2, Kelley; Wallace 2, Broadhead.

Foul goals—Hiner 2. Referee Baldwin.

JOHN RAWN

PROMINENT CITIZEN

Standley turned an agitated eye upon John Rawn. "Mr. Rawn," said he, "referring to the tenor of our earlier conversation, I desire to say that we are not in the habit of giving the lion's share to anybody."

"Suit yourself," said John Rawn, smiling.

"But in this case, as I said to you at first, there's so much in this if there's anything at all, that there's no use splitting hairs over it." He receded rapidly from the position he coveted but saw he could not hold. "We ought to begin work at once. Er—Mr. Rawn, do you happen to have any present need for any money—personally?"

"No," answered John Rawn calmly. "I am in no need of funds. When the organization is completed, and I begin my work as president of the power company, I shall be glad to go on the pay-roll, of course. I should add now that I expect Mr. Halsey to be my general manager in the mechanical department."

"In regard to salaries," said the president, hesitating, "we might roughly sketch out something—"

"My own salary will be a hundred thousand dollars a year," said Mr. Rawn quietly. "I don't think we should ask Mr. Halsey to work for less than five thousand. Do you, gentlemen?"

"There shall be no haggling, gentlemen, no haggling," said the president blandly. "It shall be as Mr. Rawn suggests."

"That's the talk!" drawled Ackerman. "I'll tell you, Rawn, come in to-morrow. We'll get the patent lawyers and our corporation counsel, and begin work on this thing."

That was all there was about it, the proceedings being wholly prosaic and commonplace. Mr. Halsey found again his newspaper, again wrapped up his machine therein, took it under his arm, and hesitatingly turned toward the door, the palest now, and most unhappy of them all. He had denied his own first-born.

CHAPTER III.

The New Mr. Rawn.

It was a wholly different John Rawn who, at forty-eight, found himself seated at the vast and shining desk of the president of the International Power Company, in the city of Chicago. The past was so far behind him that he could not with the utmost striving reconstruct the picture of it. He was a wholly new, distinct and different man. He had not as yet ever worked at a desk blessed with a row of push buttons, and was ignorant as yet, and very naturally, in regard to the particular function of each of these several buttons whose mother of pearl faces now confronted him. Resolving to take them seriatim, he pushed the one farthest to the right; which, as it chanced, was the one arranged to call to him his personal stenographer.

The door opened silently. John Rawn looked up and saw standing before him a young woman whom he had never seen before. "I beg pardon, Madam," said he, half rising. "I didn't know you were there. How did—is there anything I can do for you?"

"I am the stenographer assigned for your work, Mr. Rawn, until you shall have concluded your own arrangements in the office," answered the young woman.

She was almost tall, certainly and wholly shapely; young, but fully and adequately feminine; womanly indeed in every well curved line. Her hands and feet, her arms—the latter now disclosed by half sleeves—all were of good modeling. Her hair, piled up in rather high Grecian coiffure and confined by a bandeau of gold-brocaded ribbon, was perhaps just in the least startling.

Virginia Delaware, Mr. Rawn's daughter.

HYOMEI INHALER FOR CATARRH IF YOU OWN ONE

Then you ought to know that druggists everywhere will hand you a bottle of Booth's HYOMEI for only 50 cents. Pour a few drops of HYOMEI into the inhaler and start this very day to breathe the healing Balsamic vapor and destroy the Catarrh germs.

With every package of Booth's HYOMEI comes a little booklet which explains how easy it is to end the misery of Catarrh and Croup. It is made of Australian Eucalyptus and contains no harmful drug.

But best of all F. B. Johnson and Company are authorized to refund your money if you are dissatisfied. If you haven't the HYOMEI inhaler ask for the complete outfit, $1.00. Just breathe it—No stomach dosing. (Advertisement.)

sonal stenographer, was born the daughter of a St. Louis baker. She had, however, passed through that epoch of her development and by some means best known to herself and her family, had attained a good education, ended by three years in a young ladies' finishing school in the east.

"I was just about to say," he went on, "that I intended to have the boy get my car ready. Would you tell him to have it at the door in fifteen minutes? Then come back. There are one or two little letters."

A few moments later the young woman was seated at a small table near the end of the desk. Without any nervousness she awaited his pleasure.

Mr. Rawn's long and shiny car was waiting for him when he stepped with stately dignity down the broad stair of the National Union Club.

Threading its path through the crowded traffic of the side streets, the car presently turned up the long northbound artery of the great western city. Miles of cars carried hundreds of men to miles of mansions. In less than an hour, from town to home, John Rawn also pulled up at the entrance to his home. Speed limits are not for such as Mr. Rawn.

This residence, yet another of these pretentious mansions, top-heavy on its inadequate delimitations, and done by one of the most ingenious architects to be found for money, was as new, as hideous, as barbarous as any that could be found in all that long assemblage of varied proofs of architectural aberrations. It was as new as Mr. Rawn himself. The brick walks were hardly yet firmly settled, the shrubs were not yet sure of root, the crocus rows in the borders still showed gaps. Large trees, transplanted bodily, still were sick at heart in their new surroundings.

Rawn's dignity was such that he scarcely saw the man who took his coat and hat, and who received no greeting from his master. Laura Rawn needed to speak to him the second time.

"Well," said he, turning and sighing, "how's everything?"

"Very well, John."

"Not so bad, eh?" He jerked a thumb to indicate the lake.

"It's grand!" said his wife, yet with no vast enthusiasm in her tone. "I should say it is grand! Anyhow, there's nothing grander around Chicago. There's not very much here in the way of scenery. Of course, in New York—"

"Oh, don't let us talk of New York, John."

"I don't see how I could stand anything bigger or grander than this."

It could not have been called a wholly happy family gathering, this at Graystone Hall. Indeed, it lacked perhaps three generations, possibly three aeons, of being happy.

With little more speech after the evening meal than they had had before, an hour, perhaps, was passed in the room which the architect called the library. Mrs. Rawn called the parlor, and Mr. Rawn called the gold room. Then Laura Rawn, as was her wont, passed silently up-stairs to her own apartments—or her bedroom, as she called it—widely removed, in the architect's plans, from those of her husband. One room, one couch, had served for both in Kelly Row.

In appearance Virginia Delaware might have won approval from a closer critic than John Rawn. Her face really was almost classical in its lines, her poise and dignity now might have been that of some young, clean-lined wood-goddess of old. She always seemed unfit for humdrum duties.

"We have some letters this morning, Miss Delaware," began Rawn. "You couldn't quite take care of them all, eh?"

"We handled all we could, Mr. Rawn. I have referred a large number to proper department heads, and answered quite a number. It seemed better to refer these for your own action."

"Business growing, eh?" said Rawn, turning around to his desk. The girl's reply was just properly enthusiastic for the business.

"It's wonderful the mail we get. Inquiries come from all over the country. Yes, indeed, it seems to grow."

"I was about to say, Miss Delaware," Rawn answered, "that I am, as you know, a very busy man."

"Yes, sir," she said, evenly and impersonally.

"I have so many things to do, you see, that I don't get much time to attend to little things outside of my business. A man's business is a millstone around his neck, Miss Delaware. We men of—ahem!—of affairs are little better than slaves."

"Yes, Mr. Rawn," she said gently. "I can understand that."

"For instance, I don't even know, as long as I have been here in Chicago, the names of the best firms of decorators, house furnishers, that sort of thing—"

"Does Mrs. Rawn get about very much, sir?"

"Mrs. Rawn unfortunately is not very well. Also she has the habit of delaying in such matters. Then, as I don't myself have the time to take care of everything—why, you see—"

Her eyebrows were a trifle raised by now.

"—So I was just wondering whether I couldn't avail myself of your—your—very possible knowledge of these stores—shops, I mean."

"Of course, Mr. Rawn, I'd be willing to do anything I could," she said. "I know the city pretty well, having lived here for some time. If you would rather have me use my time in that way, it would be a great pleasure. I like nice things myself, though of course I could never have them. I've just had to flatten my nose against the window-pane! But what is the color scheme, Mr. Rawn?"

"About everything the confounded builders and decorators could think of," said Rawn frankly. "I think they called it a gray-and-silver motive. I know there's something in white, with dark red for the doors and facings."

Miss Delaware sat for a moment, a pencil against her lip, engaged in thought.

"Certainly, Mr. Rawn. I'll be very glad to do it, if I can be spared from the office."

"That's all, Miss Delaware." She passed out gently, impersonally. Rawn found himself looking at the door where she had vanished.

It was perhaps an hour later that he re-opened the door himself in answer to a knock. Miss Delaware stood respectfully waiting. "There is a man from Jansen's waiting for you, Mr. Rawn," said she.

"Tell him to come in," said Rawn. There rose from a near-by seat a gray-haired, grave and slender man, of sad demeanor, who presently removed from his pocket and spread out upon the glass top of John Rawn's desk such a display of gems as set the whole room aglow with light. Rawn felt his own eyes shine, his own soul leap. There always was something in diamonds which spoke to him.

"Ah-hum!" said he, feigning indifference, "some pretty good ones, eh?" He poked around among them with the end of his penholder, as the gray and grave man quietly opened one paper package after another, and exposed his wares.

John Rawn reached out and pushed the button farthest to the right in the long row on his desk. Miss Delaware came and stood quietly awaiting his command.

Something in the soul of Virginia Delaware leaped! For the first time her eyes shone with brighter fire; for the first time she half-gasped in actual emotion. There was something in diamonds which spoke to her also!

"Pick out two things there," said John Rawn sententiously, pushing himself back from the desk.

"I should say this pendant. Take a guess at the rings. What would Mrs. Rawn like; and what would about suit Miss Rawn?"

She bent above the desk, her eyes aflame at the sight of the brilliance that lay before her.

"I should say your choice is excellent, Mr. Rawn," said she at length, gently, controlling herself. "The pendant is beautiful, set with the emeralds. And as for the rings, I'd take this one, I believe, with the two steel-blue stones."

"How much?" said John Rawn, turning to the grave and gray salesman.

"The two pieces would cost you twenty-eight thousand dollars, sir," the latter replied, gravely and impersonally.

"Miss Delaware," said John Rawn, taking from his pocket his personal check book, "oblige me by making out a check for that amount. Bring it in to me directly—and have the boy call my car."

When John Rawn ascended the steps of his mansion house that night, he fairly throbbed with the sense of his own self-approval. There was that in his pocket which, he thought, when worn by the wife of John Rawn at any public place of display, would indicate what grade of life he, John Rawn, had shown himself fit to occupy. He lost no time in summoning his wife, and with small ado put in her extended hand the little mass of trembling, shivering gems. She gazed at them almost stupefied.

"Well, well!" he broke out, "can't you say anything? What about it? They're yours!"

"Oh, John!" she began. "John! What do you mean? How could you—how could I—"

For one moment he looked at her, and she shrank back from his gaze. But Rawn's anger turned to self-pity. "My own wife won't wear my diamonds," said he.

She came now and put her arms about his neck, the first time in years; but not in thankfulness. She looked straight into his eyes. "John!" she said. "Oh, John!" There was all of woman's anguish in her eyes, in her voice.

Remarkable Success of These Talented Physicians in the Treatment of Chronic Diseases.

Offer Their Services Free of Charge.

Dr. Mayo and Associated Specialists licensed by the State of Indiana for the treatment of deformities and all nervous and chronic diseases of men, women and children, offer to all who call on this trip, consultation, examination, advice free, making no charge whatever, except the actual cost of medicine. All that is asked in return for these valuable services is that every person treated will state the result obtained to their friends and thus prove to the sick and afflicted in every city and locality, that at last treatments have been discovered that are reasonably sure and certain in their effect.

These doctors are considered by many former patients among America's leading stomach and nerve specialists and are experts in the treatment of chronic disease.

Diseases of the stomach, liver, blood, skin, nerves, heart, kidneys or bladder, rheumatism, dropsy, sciatica, weak lungs and those afflicted with long-standing, deep-seated chronic diseases, that have baffled the skill of the family physicians, should not fail to call.

Varicocele and Hydrocele cured in one treatment, no knife and no detention from business. Catarrh treated successfully.

No matter what your ailment may be, no matter what others may have told you, no matter what experience you may have had with other physicians, it will be to your advantage to see them at once. If your case is incurable they will give you such advice as may relieve and stay the disease. Do not put off this duty, you owe yourself, as a visit this time costs you nothing.

Remember this free offer for one day only.

RIGHT TO TAKE A DRINK

Ought Not to Be Abridged by Congress, Says Kentuckian.

Washington, Feb. 8.—A man has a right to take a drink when he wants to and where he wants to—no matter how dry the territory might be.

That was one of the reasons given to the senate by Senator Paynter of Kentucky for his opposition to the bill prohibiting shipment of liquor into dry territory. He insisted it was not right to restrict the individual, and claimed that the bill did just that.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa, author of the bill, objected to the statement, but Paynter insisted his interpretation was right.

LONG GRAFT LIST IS GIVEN TO COMMITTEE

New York Gambler Tells a Sordid Story.

New York, Feb. 8.—The Curran committee has heard from James Purcell, for years engaged in the poolroom and gambling business in New York city, how, when and where and to whom he paid $50,000 protection money during the last ten years. It required a little more than two hours for the witness to tell it all, and during that time the names of policemen, inspectors, captains, detectives and wardmen fell from his lips almost with every sentence, interlarded with aldermen and former aldermen, a Tammany leader, the brother-in-law of Charles F. Murphy, Police Lieutenant Becker, Sergeant Eggers and his squad, saloon men and other gamblers, to say nothing of two agents for vice societies who insisted on getting theirs.

Summed up, Purcell in his testimony declared that he had paid protection money from $50 to $120 a week to the wardmen of Police Inspectors William McLaughlin and Cornelius Hayes. He had not been able to do business with Inspectors Harley and Smiling Dick Walsh. He had paid the wardmen of Captains Thomas, now retired, Delaney, retired, Martens, still on the force, Maude, still on the force, Captain Gannon, retired, Naughton, Cochran, Burns and Patrick F. Gray, who is Charles F. Murphy's brother-in-law.

He mentioned twenty-two policemen under the rank of captain, alleging that he had done business with all squads with the exception of that commanded by "Honest" Dan Costigan.

Editors Elect Officers.

Indianapolis, Feb. 8.—At the mid-winter meeting of the Indiana State Democratic Editorial association the following officers were elected: President, C. J. Arnold, Greencastle; first vice president, Oscar Cravens, Bloomington; second vice president, Lew M. O'Bannon, Corydon; secretary, H. F. Schriker, Knox; treasurer, H. B. Wilson, Delphi. The summer meeting of the association will be held at New Albany.

CANNON PATROL IS ORDERED OUT

Central American Peace to Be Preserved.

TAFT TAKES DRASTIC ACTION

Alarmed at Threats of a General Conflagration in the Isthmian Republics Upon Advent of Wilson Administration, President Has Taken Action Looking to Nipping in Bud of Plans of Revolutionaries.

Washington, Feb. 8.—President Taft, determined that President Elect Wilson shall find Central America in order when he takes office on March 4, has directed that American warships be sent at once to cover all the important points on the east and west coasts.

This drastic action was taken by the president as a result of the alarm from the reports that have been pouring into the state department from every point in Central America since the November election. The attack on President Ajuato of Salvador a few days ago strengthened President Taft in his determination that the next administration should not take office with a Central American uprising on its hands. Activities on the part of the colony of habitual revolutionists and emigrados politico at New Orleans rendered necessary this action if a general conflagration is to be prevented even before the appointed day, which was to be as soon after March 4 as possible.

On the morning of March 5 it will be up to Mr. Wilson and his secretary of state to decide what they are going to do about Central America. If Mr. Wilson and his secretary of state decide to withdraw the ships at once, such action will be a realization of the fondest hope of the revolutionists whose intentions President Taft is endeavoring to frustrate.

The orders under which the American war vessels are proceeding to Central American waters provide effectively for control of the entire situation. The gunboat Annapolis at once left Santiago for Amapala, Honduras. This vessel can cover operations on the coasts of three republics at once. The cruiser Denver will proceed from Acapulco, Mexico, to Acapulco, on the west coast of Salvador. The cruiser Des Moines will proceed to Bluefields, on the east coast of Nicaragua, while the cruiser Nashville, now at New Orleans, will go to Puerto Cortez, Honduras, or Puerto Barrios, Guatemala. Each of these ports is the most important in the respective countries, and each is a railway terminal.

The information in the hands of the state department indicates clearly that three and perhaps four of the republics are involved in the revolutionary plotting going on. These republics are Nicaragua, Salvador, Guatemala and Honduras. The revolutionary element in these countries is making no secret of its intended action after March 4.

The president hopes by his prompt action in sending naval vessels to Central American waters to nip the schemes of the New Orleans group and their collaborators in Central America, leaving it to Mr. Wilson to determine what he pleases to do about it.

MAY YET AVERT A STRIKE

Firemen Vote to Go Out, but Hope is Not Abandoned.

New York, Feb. 8.—The committee of managers of the eastern railroads announce that their firemen have voted almost unanimously to strike. The 30,000 firemen almost to a man voted "yes" on the proposition to tie up over 52,000 miles of railroad rather than accept the offer of the companies to arbitrate the questions at issue.

If the firemen announce that as a result of their strike vote their committee will call out the men, the railroads will take steps immediately to prepare for the operation of trains under strike conditions, but before any steps are taken in response to the vote of the firemen, further conferences will be sought in an effort to reach a settlement. The firemen, their representatives say, are hopeful of coming to an understanding.

GOT BACK JEWELLED KNIFE

Jury Says Frederick O. Beach May Go Acquitted.

Aiken, S. C., Feb. 8.—Frederick O. Beach, New York millionaire, was acquitted here of the charge of assault on his wife with intent to kill. Beach said that he had never for a moment believed that twelve men could have brought in any other verdict on the evidence offered.

Before Mr. Beach left the courtroom he gathered up his blood-stained garments which had been part of the evidence against him and repocketed with a smile the diamond-studded knife which has figured so largely in the case since it was taken from him almost a year ago. Beach has made no secret of the fact that he regarded himself the victim of an unscrupulous detective.

Approximately 40,000,000 parcel post packages were handled during January.

RUSHVILLE DROPS GAME TO FRANKLIN

Locals Suffer Another Defeat Losing
Fast Contest by Score of 24 to 8.

TEAMS SHOWS IMPROVED FORM

In a fast and exciting game of basketball last night the Franklin high school team defeated the locals by the score of 24 to 8. The game was the best the locals have put up this year on their own floor and the team displayed a remarkable improvement. Rushville started with a rush and the first two minutes of play neither team scored. The locals fought for every point and the two teams were about even as far as team work was concerned. Towards the close of the first half the locals slowed down and Franklin gained a lead the half ending 13 to 3.

The Franklin team displayed nothing great and with any kind of luck Rushville should have won. Franklin had at least three shots for every basket made. For Rushville, Cameron and Hinkle played the best game. Hinkle was especially good on the defensive and broke up play after play. The line-up and summary:

Rushville	Franklin
Cameron, Bramm	Clark
Hinkle	Gilmore
Webb	Jones
Griffin, Shanahan	Cover
Fraser	Elinu
	Guard

Field goals—Clark 4, Gilmore 3, Jones 2, Cover, Cameron 2, Webb. Foul goals—Clark 2, Jones 2, Griffin 2. Referee, Smelser.

TO TRAIN PUPIL TO HOLD A JOB

Yarling Bill Pending in Senate Provides For Vocational Training in Public Schools.

AUTHORITY VESTED IN BOARD

Tax Would Have to be Levied to Pay Expenses of Such Innovation.

A system of vocational education to train children for work in the shop and on the farm would be established in the public schools of Indiana by the Yarling bill pending in the legislature.

The bill embodies the recommendations of the commission on industrial and agricultural education created by the 1911 legislature, of which Senator Will A. Yarling was chairman, and John A. Lapp, legislative librarian, secretary.

Under the bill local school boards would be given authority to establish vocational schools or departments at once and levy a special tax not to exceed 10 cents on each $100 of taxable property in the corporation to support such work. Beginning with 1914-1915, local school boards shall be reimbursed by the state for two-thirds of the sum expended for such instruction approved by the board. An additional tax levy of one cent on each $100 in the state shall be levied by the state to make up a fund with which to reimburse the local boards for vocational work.

Evening classes are provided for in the measure; also part-time vocational classes for those engaged in similar lines of work. Attendance on day and part-time classes would be the limit to persons from 15 to 25 years of age and evening classes to persons over 17.

Two or more cities, towns or townships might co-operate in establishing vocational schools and departments. Elementary agriculture would be required in the grades in all towns and townships; schools; elementary industrial work would be required in the grades of all city and town schools and elementary domestic science would be taught to all girls in such schools.

The bill would add three new members to the state board of education, persons actively interested in vocational education.

SANDUSKY 'MAYOR' IS PAINFULLY HURT

Alva Reed Falls Down Stairs, Encumbered By Felt Boots, And Sprains His Ankle.

HE MISJUDGES THE DISTANCE

Alva Reed, known to thousands as "The Mayor of Sandusky," was painfully if not seriously injured in a fall received at his home yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, says the Greensburg Review.

Mr. Reed was descending a very steep flight of steps and is said to have been heavily burdened with several pairs of felt boots which he was preparing to offer to the natives who daily throng his trading post from early dawn to darkness, hoping thereby, it is supposed, to reap a harvest of the "kale" which attains such a luxuriant growth in that vicinity.

Thinking he had reached the last step, Mr. Reed took a mighty stride with the terrible result that boots and man were precipitated into the depths of the hallway, a confused mass of feet and felt meeting the gaze of his terror-stricken wife, when she entered upon the scene. An examination revealed the fact that Mr. Reed's left ankle was badly sprained, though no other injuries could be discovered. At four o'clock he was resting easily and no further complications are feared.

NONAGENARIAN IS DEAD

James Sefton, Age 92, Expires at Home Near Williamstown.

James Sefton, a nonagenarian, died at his home just south of Williams-town yesterday of kidney trouble at the age of ninety-two years. He was born in Ohio, March 20, 1821 and came to the vicinity of Williamstown and Sandusky early in life. He has been a farmer all his life. Mrs. Sefton died fifteen years ago. Mr. Sefton is survived by four sons, D. F. J. W., C. A. and C. M. Sefton, and one daughter, Mrs. Emory Richards. The funeral services will be held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at the Methodist church at Sandusky, with interment in the cemetery at Shiloh.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Keaton is suffering with the whooping cough.

at a cut price. We are not going to charge you an outlandish profit on a buggy today in order to sell your neighbor one at a sacrifice price tomorrow and we have two reasons for this, one of them is that it is not treating you right to charge you more for an article than we charge your neighbor, and the second reason is that our margin of profit is figured on a basis that makes it impossible to cut our prices and make a profit. The fact is this: that we can sell you a buggy any day in the year cheaper than you can buy one of the same grade any other place in the county, and if you have waited until this time to buy a Storm Buggy, we want a chance to prove to you that we can take care of you on this proposition better than any one else, regardless of cut prices that they may advertise.
